A mod community website TBR "IL2Mod" 3.1 TBR "IL2Mod" 3.1 is a mod that lets you control planes individually and destroy ground targets by activating different types of aerial bombs and drops. The differences between the bombs are: Bomb Type: The specific bomb type you use. Dynamics: The range of terrain the bomb will explode on. Accuracy: How likely the bomb will hit the target. The individual bombs are combined to make the bombs, and have several characteristics (see the complete information in the weapon descriptions). Accuracy is affected by accuracy, radius, order, etc. Each bomb type has its own characteristics. View video overview: References: 1. Release information Overview This mod controls the individual planes (sort of like a war simulation). Individual planes have different strengths and weaknesses. When you fight a ground battle, some of your planes can be called upon to support the ground battle, just like in the main mod. The planes are controlled using the mouse. You can fly your plane (flanking or circling) around the map. You are able to use your bombs, auto-cannons and artillery. Bombs are for ground targets, artillery for ground targets and auto-cannons for air targets. There is an overview of the weapon system on the overview page of the mod. The aim of this mod is to provide you with the possibility to control planes yourself. The planes will also be able to attack ground targets without you. In a ground battle, the planes will fly around your plane, ready to support you. However, some planes will be unable to attack ground targets. There is also a full overview of the planes in the planes page of the mod. In the planes overview, you can see the weapons the planes can use. When flying around the map, you can use the bombs, cannons and artillery of the planes. However, you will also be able to shoot some of the planes down. You can fly your plane in the air, or you can use the planes that have auto-cannons, artillery or bombs. If you fly your plane into the air, you will be able to dive bombs on ground targets. The planes are controlled using their own turn orders. To use the weapons, you need to select the weapon and activate it. However, you 82157476af
